Ten-year-old triplets Barnacle, Melancholy, and Garlic Weirdie grew up in a town plagued by relentless meteor showers. Their home,

Deadeye Manor, is a bleak mansion filled with hundreds of eccentric houseguests and one set of emotionally distant (some would say sociopathic) parents. When the entire group of grown-ups goes on vacation, forgetting to bring the children, the three siblings are sent to Our Lady of the Perpetual Side-Eye Orphanage, where they meet Miss Emily, a sweet and loving caseworker who attempts to smooth their rough edges. The triplets, however, are truly weird — causing chaos and mayhem in their adoptive home on picture-perfect Sunshine Circle.

Will the Weirdies and Miss Emily manage to become the family they all desperately need, or will it end in disaster for all of them?

Greta Starr has one dream: to be a famous reporter. Unfortunately she's been assigned to write for the paper's most boring beat, and she's stuck. Then, on Greta's twelfth birthday, she receives a mysterious cuckoo clock with a wooden dancer at its center. Every hour, the doll twirls in time with the music, until one night she comes to life. Lulu is infused with magic and mischief. With Lulu's sly encouragement, Greta engineers a feel-good story to report on, setting in motion a series of remarkable—if deceitful—happy endings at school that help Greta gain popularity. But when the truth threatens Greta's friendships, she is confronted with very real consequences that Lulu's magic can't fix.

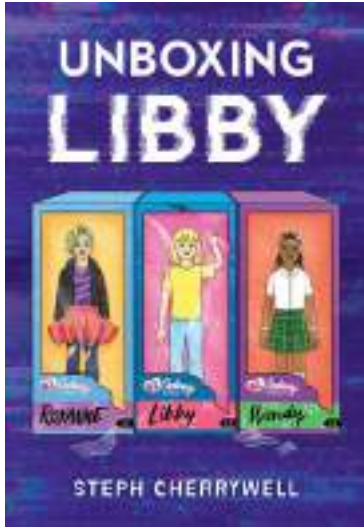

This coming-of-age story explores the blurred line between fact and fiction as Greta realizes the key to being a great reporter—and a great friend—is striving for truth, not perfection.

Enter the Bizarre Bazaar, a new graphic novel series sure to enchant or entrap its curious customers! In this first twisted tale, a boy stumbles—literally—into Mirror Town, a world where he gets everything he's ever wanted...or so he thinks.

No one ever pays attention to twelve-year-old Abel Azari: not his parents, not the cool kids at school, and certainly not his crush, Ginny Mendoza. To them, he's always been practically invisible.

That all changes the day he discovers a peculiar mirror in his neighbor's garage. But this isn't any old mirror, as Abel finds out soon enough when he accidentally falls through it.

What waits for him on the other side is a world just like his, except something is...off. Suddenly, his busy parents are spending every minute with him, his classmates treat him like a king, and now the girl he's been crushing on wants to hang out? It's the life Abel's always dreamed of; how could he possibly go back to the way things were before?

But not everything—or everyone—is as it seems. Mirror Town hides evil secrets, and Abel will have to unravel them fast before he ends up trapped there forever.

Zaria Mendoza is a talented alchemologist, like her late father, able to create any magically powered weapon her dark market clients ask of her. But the work is piling up, materials aren't cheap, and life in Devil's Acre is getting more dangerous by the day. And though Zaria doesn't like to talk about it—even with her childhood friend, Jules—creating magic is slowly draining her life away.

Ward, the kingpin of the dark market, has an impossible task for Kane Durante: steal a certain necklace. It doesn't matter that the necklace is part of the Great Exhibition in London's Crystal Palace, where thousands of people, including the queen, will be in attendance. If successful, Kane's best friend, Fletcher, will be freed from the kingpin's command. Fail, and Ward will kill Fletcher himself. Zaria's fate becomes linked with Kane's when she agrees to help him with his heist—as long as extra jewels from the Crystal Palace are part of the deal. This is Zaria and Jules's only chance out of the hellhole they call home. There are just two problems: Zaria needs that necklace just as much as Kane does, and Kane has no intention of stealing extra jewels.

With time running out and the two of them determined to double-cross each other, who will come out on top?

I reached the clearing with the seven white pines and stopped to get my breath back. The mist filled my lungs, peppery and also sweet, and momentum pushed me forward. Giddy, I dropped into a bed of moss, soft and slick in spots, and rolled in it, howled for no reason, felt close to an understanding of some kind, as if an eye inside me was peeling open. It was the first full moon after I turned thirteen, and I knew that whatever happened in this next stretch of hours would change me forever after.

I wasn't wrong.

Three years ago, Talia lived happily in the ruins of the Neves, a once-grand hotel in the wilds of the Catskill Mountains, with her mother Pola and their community of like-minded women. Some came to the Neves to escape cruel men, others to hide from the law, but all found safety and connection in their haven high above civilization, cloaked by a mysterious mist that kept intruders away. But as their numbers grew, complications followed, and everything came crashing down the night electric lights pierced the forest. Uniformed men arrested Pola, calling her a murderer and a fugitive, and Talia was taken away.

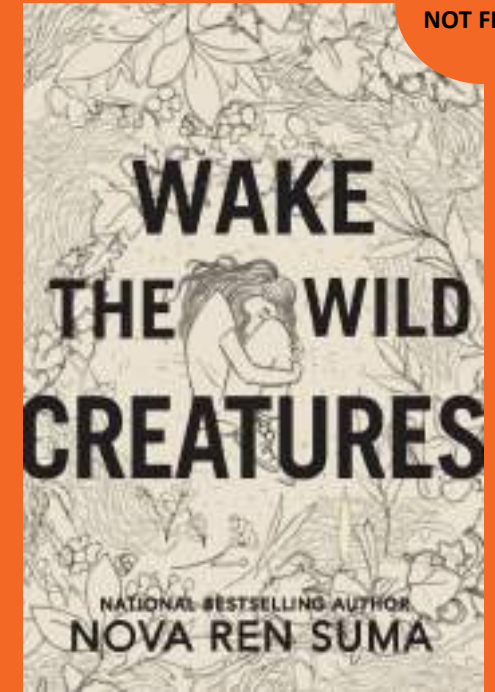

Now sixteen, Talia has been forced to live with family she barely knows and fit into a world scarred by misogyny, capitalism, disconnection from nature . . . everything the women of the Neves stood against. She has one goal: to return to the Neves. But as Talia awaits a signal from her mother, questions arise. Who betrayed her community, and what is she avoiding about her own role in its collapse? Is it truly magic that keeps the hotel so hidden? And what does it mean to embrace being her mother's daughter? With the help of an unexpected ally, Talia must find her way to answers, face a mother who's often kept her at arm's length, and try to reach the refuge she lost—if the mist hasn't swallowed her path home.

Fierce and lyrical, unsettling and tender, Wake the Wild Creatures marks the long-awaited return of one of the most distinctive voices in young adult literature.

For fans of You've Reached Sam and David Levitan's Every Day, this mind-bending second-chance romance explores the very nature of self.

Aria Patel likes security, certainty, predictability. It's why she's so into science. But when Aria finds herself suddenly falling through parallel universes, there's no equation that can save her. Aria believes there's a theory for everything—but she can't seem to find one that explains why she's been waking up in a new reality almost every day.

As Aria navigates her falls through the multiverse, she finds herself forming unexpected bonds in parallel worlds—making it even more difficult to find a way back to her own reality—or want to.

May 2025

For years the kraken was considered a mythical beast. Then, in 2004, high-tech cameras captured a photo of a living giant squid. Advances in technology have provided scientists with new tools to study previously undiscovered, unresearched habitats: high-tech cameras, forensic analysis, underwater robots, infrared sensors, drones, remote control photography and measurement tools, airborne DNA, footprint identification, and more.

Catching Cryptids explores these technological advances in a fun way by pairing them with mythical creatures and discussing how modern technology could be used to locate or “catch” these beasts. The book includes a mini history of each cryptid, along with interesting facts about the corresponding field of science, and spot illustrations throughout.

Featuring over 45 creatures found on land, in water, and among the skies, Catching Cryptids will leave readers wondering what's next? The phoenix? Dragons? The possibilities are endless!

So when a mysterious woman appears among the hives and offers Bonnie a job at a faire that's in town for one night only, Bonnie reluctantly takes a chance. But this Faire isn't a regular carnival. Oh no. This Faire is a sentient, magical being that exists in a nomadic pocket reality and is run by people and creatures from countless universes.

RIPENING TIME

MELISSA DASSORI

Ages 4 - 7
32 Pages
April 2025

Celebrate the power of food to create delicious, lasting memories with this poetic and playful exploration of the joy of waiting for, and finally sharing, fried plantains.

Mama steers the cart toward the produce section of the grocery store and picks up a bunch of green plantains. Thus begins a week of anxious anticipation as a young girl waits for mustard yellows to seep onto the unripe green peels. By Thursday, black marks begin to splotch and streak across the plantains. And finally, on Sunday, the frying pan sizzles and hisses, as Mama serves up the warm, sugary slices the young girl has waited for so long.

Much like there is sweet treasure hidden beneath the skin of a plantain, this beautifully written and evocative story reaches far beyond the act of preparing a favorite food. Ripening Time celebrates the way food and family entwine to connect us across generations—and serves as a touching reminder that some of the sweetest rewards in life are worth the wait.
