Love Poets Society

About the book

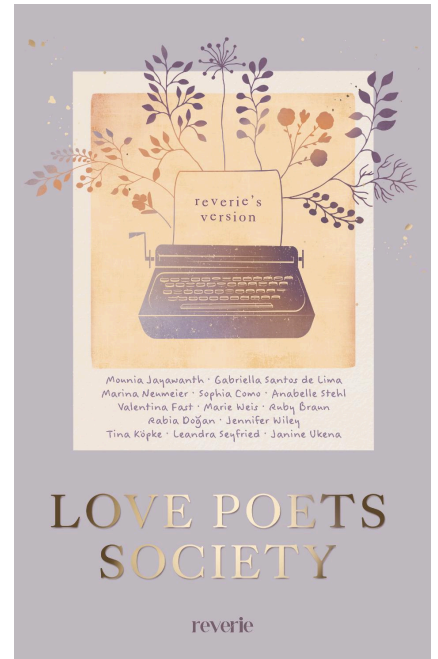

We all know the feeling that a Taylor Swift song makes everything better. Whether it's heartbreak memories, butterflies-in-the-belly moments or the typical dancing-through-the-bedroom-and-singing-into-the-hair-brush moments, Taylor's songs are the perfect companion for romantic hearts and dating realists.

Our LOVE POETS SOCIETY has set itself the task of capturing exactly these feelings in 13 romantic short stories! Each one is dedicated to a Taylor Swift song, is heartbreaking and heartwarming, melancholy or light as a feather, enriched with tiny hidden allusions - just like a Taylor Swift album.

A playlist full of love stories by Anabelle Stehl, Mounia Yajawanth, Janine Ukena, Marina Neumeier, Gabriella Santos de Lima, Sophia Como, Marie Weis, Leandra Seyfried, Ruby Braun, Jennifer Wiley, Rabia Doğan, Valentina Fast and Tina Köpke.

A book for the Swiftie bookbubble: Taylor Swift

Ria Radtke

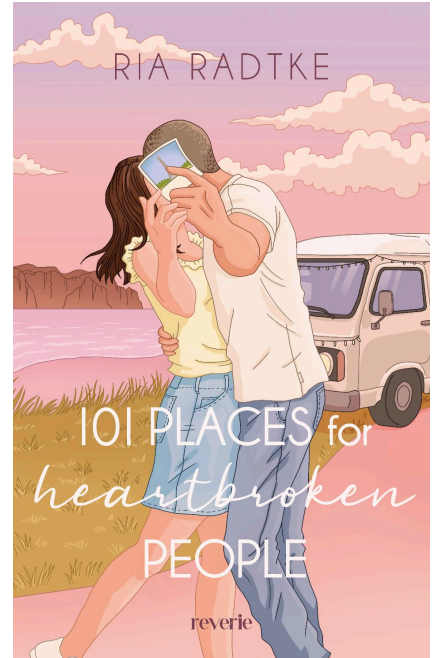

101 Places for Heartbroken People

On this road trip, she not only finds herself, but also the love of her life.

About the book

The young journalist Maeve (23) is commissioned to write a travel guide for people suffering from heartbreak. Following in the footsteps of tragic lovers from literature and world history, she travels through Europe, capturing her impressions in pictures on her blog, while deperately not wanting to fall in love. But when contact with one of her anonymous followers becomes closer, she has to admit to herself that she is running away from her own happy ending, because his pictures touch something inside her and remind her of someone she could never forget ...

- A captivating second chance romance
- Inspired by lovers from literature, world history and the inhabitants of Europe
- Trend theme of travel blogging as a central element

Ria Radtke, born in 1990, loves bittersweet love stories set in dreamlike places. After studying literature in southern Germany and the United Kingdom, Ria now lives in the Hanseatic city of Lübeck. When she's not travelling to do research, she can be found in the countryside with her dog, at a flea market or in a café, where she loves to write her books.

Katharina Juli

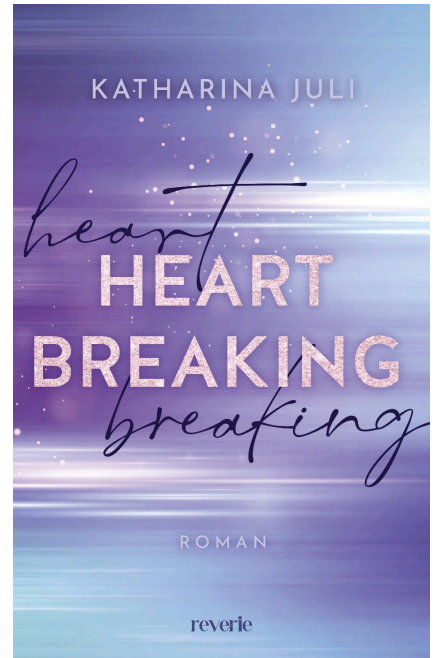

Heart Breaking

Katharina Juli addresses a taboo subject in professional sport: Formula 1 meets gay romance

About the book

After a one-night stand, journalist Josh and Formula 1 driver Henry suddenly find themselves face to face again at a race. However, in order not to jeopardise both their careers, their shared past must remain a secret. Josh, who has just been appointed to Formula 1 as a sports reporter, would do anything to restore his reputation and career. Meanwhile, Henry wants to protect his public image as the sunny boy of Formula 1 at all costs - because homosexuality is still a taboo subject. While Henry tries to keep his distance, Josh becomes more and more entangled in lies. But between racetracks and press conferences, they grow closer and soon can no longer ignore their budding feelings. Will they have to choose between love and career?

- Workplace Romance meets Forbidden Love and Secret Relationship
- No one can escape this love story with fast-paced action

Katharina Juli, born in 1992, has loved storytelling since she was little. She is particularly fond of romantic and fantastic worlds. When she's not writing, she likes to spend her time reading, having a coffee with friends and family or travelling through Europe. She is always on the lookout for new and colourful ideas. Katharina lives in Central Hesse with her partner and more books than space allows.

Sophia Como

Sinister Nights

They both live in different worlds. Until they finally collide.

About the book

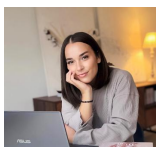

Sierra Lopez can't believe it. The marketing student is one of the few chosen to get an internship at Luminia - Spain's largest jewellery empire, which focuses primarily on diamonds - to organise this year's anniversary celebrations. Together with three other students, she will spend the next few weeks planning one of Madrid's biggest luxury events and collecting valuable references. Her roommate and work partner: Carla. A young woman she has never seen before at her university, but with whom she immediately becomes friends. The more time she spends with the bright Carla, the more strangely she behaves. Above all, her new friend seems to have a close relationship with the Luminias' son - Philippe - who acts as a mentor for Carla and Sierra during their preparations and casts a spell over Sierra in particular. More and more often, she overhears heated discussions and conversations between the two, although her friend claims to hardly know him. Instead, Sierra forbiddenly gets closer to her mentor, who makes everything inside her burn with his secret looks and touches. The more she loses herself in his deep brown eyes, the more suspicious things happen to Carla: slashed tyres, ransacked rooms and threatening messages - until Carla disappears without a trace and Sierra is forced to ask herself how well she really knows the man she has fallen in love with and her friend.

- Forbidden love in Madrid's high society
- Luxury, glamour and intrigue

Sophia Como was born in Flörsheim am Main in 1996 and was already an avid reader and dreamer as a child. Always travelling in worlds other than reality, she secretly scribbled stories in her notebooks during lessons. She fills her novels with her own experiences, dreams and little peculiarities that she encounters in everyday life.

Words Like Feathers

Because light as a feather doesn't always mean weightless

About the book

What happens when you see your first big love and most painful break-up again after three years of radio silence and realise that you are everything ... except over him? Olivia Yates is overjoyed when the small cinema CineHeaven, where she works, is accepted for a major project: a two-week retreat for artists from the film/acting/musical sector with workshops, performances, lectures etc. is taking place at a castle in the Scottish Highlands and CineHeaven is allowed to be part of it. This is not only a great promotional opportunity for the cinema, but also a dream come true for film-mad Olivia, who is allowed to take part in the retreat and is asked to report on it on the cinema's Instagram account. Excited, she finally sets off from her home town of Bath to rugged Scotland. What she didn't expect, however, was that one of the retreat's 'star guests' was Tristan Kingsley. One of Scotland's most famous musical theatre actors. The older brother of her best friend and also the man whose heart she once broke. Tristan is anything but enthusiastic about their reunion, especially as Olivia is to stay with him and his sister in their flat for the next two weeks. Between creative workshops, excursions into nature and few opportunities to avoid each other, Olivia and Tristan slowly grow closer again. But the past still weighs heavily and the unspoken reasons for their separation loom like a wall between them. As the end of the retreat draws nearer, the two have to come to a conclusion whether their love still has a chance or whether their paths will part for good this time ...

- Emotional second-chance romance meets favourite trope best-friend's-brother
- Own-Voice author on the topic of mental health

Marie Weis was born in 1999 and currently lives in Bonn among countless books. The trained bookseller loves to immerse herself in stories, both when reading and writing. When she's not writing in cosy cafés, she's probably watching Pretty Little Liars for the tenth time, listening to Taylor Swift or eagerly awaiting the Christmas season. The author is always happy to hear from her readers, e.g. on Instagram at @mariesliteratur.

Under The Same Stars

Astrobiology student meets hot flight instructor

About the book

Protagonist Robin unexpectedly meets up with an old acquaintance again: Jamie is supposed to give her flying lessons as she has to obtain a pilot's licence for a university course. Jamie used to be good friends with Robin's brothers, but hasn't been in touch since he started university in another city. Back in Los Angeles, he doesn't want anyone to know he's back - not even his family. So the two make a pact: as long as Robin doesn't tell Jamie's family, he will continue to give her flying lessons and she will learn to overcome her fear of flying. Gradually, their feelings grow stronger, but Robin senses that Jamie is hiding something. The once open boy has become a man with a hardened expression. She has no idea that Jamie blames himself for the death of his best friend. When she realises this, her emotions boil over.

- Trend topic STEM with clever protagonists, an international cast, hot moments and deep emotions

Natalie Erlach

My Favorite Time in Our Summer (3)

You're hiding behind the camera with your pretty brown eyes and a head full of worries, Bas.

About the book

Since leaving Manhattan's Upper East Side, photographer Basilton has been traveling the world and enjoying his creative jet-set life. Apart from his camera and his best friend Kalea, he doesn't need anything or anyone, especially not his family. And certainly not sunshine Neah, who works day and night in her beloved bakery on Shore Mana Promenade and doesn't even notice how the pressure is gradually making her smile disappear. Bas, who hides his helper's heart behind a hard shell, makes it his mission to get Neah's nerve to smile at least once a day. But in a thoughtless moment, he lets his wall crumble and Neah runs the risk of being crushed by the weight of her worries. Can two such broken hearts still feel at all?

- Volume 3 of the touching Shore Mana trilogy
- Opposites Attract in a picturesque Hawaiian setting

Natalie Erlach was born in 1991 during a snowstorm night in Berlin, where she lives with her small family. Before studying engineering, she spent several months in Ireland. Natalie puts all her heart and soul into creating her multi-layered characters and special feel-good settings, with inspiration lurking around every inconspicuous corner. She loves to travel the world via summer road trips, but she won't say no to a rainy day on the sofa either, as long as the pile of books is high and the coffee cup is full. Natalie doesn't have a favourite season, but romanticizes every single one, and you can see that in her books.

Laura Kästner

When the wind breaks the silence

‘I wanted to give my dreams wings, but then it turned out that it was wings that made my dreams fly.’

About the book

20-year-old Cleo is studying management and runs a butterfly farm in Ohio with her father Brad. Between lemon butterflies, blue butterflies and swallowtails, she is completely absorbed in caring for the colourful animals. But then her father reveals that the butterfly farm is on the verge of bankruptcy. Cleo, in a panic, applies to several companies in order to improve the household budget and save the farm. However, the only job she is offered is as an assistant to Miles McCorvey, the managing director of the very company that wants to build an office block on the butterfly farm. Cleo accepts the job, partly to persuade Miles not to demolish the butterfly farm, but the initial dislike between the two soon gives way to other feelings...

- Enemies-to-lovers workplace romance with a connection to nature
- A story as delicate as the flap of a butterfly's wings

Born in May 1995 in a small town in Saxony-Anhalt, Laura already enjoyed writing stories at school. After leaving school, she studied German literature as well as art and visual history and wrote her first books under her maiden name. Today she lives in Berlin with her husband, child and cat Lilly and works as an editor.

Marina Neumeier

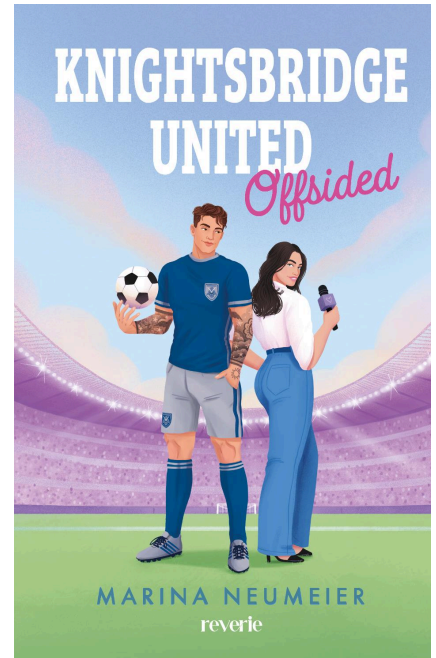

Knightsbridge United

Sports Today!

About the book

Davina King has two principles: She never wants to commit to a man again, and she wants to show the world with an outstretched middle finger that she can make it as a woman in sports reporting. However, this plan is thrown into disarray when she suffers a panic attack during a visit to the pub (triggered by the fact that she thinks she has seen her violent ex-boyfriend) and is photographed in the arms of Knightsbridge United professional Alec Ward, of all people, as he comforts her. When speculation arises immediately after the publication of the alleged cuddly photos that the two could be together, Davina and Alec make a deal: In order to use the media attention to their mutual advantage, they will play a couple for six months. Without any feelings, of course. A piece of cake for Davina, who swore after her last disastrous relationship that she would never let a man get too close to her again and is certainly not going to change that for a pompous footballer. Alec and she are fake, but that changes when her ex reappears and threatens to bring back her worst nightmares.

- Sports romance centred on football with a spicy deal and fake dating
- Strong female protagonist in a world dominated by men
- For fans of Elle Kennedy and Hannah Grace
